

Agritourism at the Crossroads of the Socio-Ecological European Transition

Charline DUBOIS
Serge SCHMITZ

Liège - ENTI 2011

FNR Luxembourg
Laplec - ULg
Belgium

Solution

- Multiplication of the territorial development strategies
- Vector of diversification : transition

➤ Agritourism as a solution

Context

- Increasing pressures & difficulties in some European rural countryside
- Decreasing of agricultural activities & lost of importance of farmers
- Diverse sociological economical cultural and environmental consequences
- Diagnosis in accordance with the challenges of the socio-ecological transition

Agritourism

- Hybrid activities : agriculture + tourism
- New expectations of the tourists in EU
- Integration of other values : sustainability

Framework

Which countryside for which agritourism ?

Integration in the socio-ecological transition ?

- Prospective and international analysis
- Tourist activity in the farm & local economy
- Social and environmental outputs
- Knowledge & wellbeing

And so what ?

Countryside ↔ Transition ↔ Agritourism

- Comfortable solution : well according to the directions of the socio-ecological transition
 - Network of the tourist actors easy ↔ Local producers ?
 - Inheritance preservation ↔ Landscapes ? ↔ Energy ?
 - Importance of the social role and wellbeing
- Global knowledge & learning → Better adaptation

Framework

- International comparisons & on-site investigations
 - Local tenants/farmers – tourists – organizations – institutions
 - Walloon Region – Grand Duchy of Luxembourg – Slovenia

And so what ?

- Different types of agritourism : heterogeneity
 - Diversity of resources and various factors (geographically)
 - Importance of images & marketing
 - Influences of characteristics of the farm
- Adaptation in the local system and in sustainability ?

And so what ?

- Different motivations linked
 - Tourists : return to authentic values
 - Farmers : economic and social aspects
 - But problem of image
- To be innovating and concerned by quality and tourist wellbeing
 - New frame : business tourism on farm

If any questions ... charline.dubois@ulg.ac.be

