Abstract:

The strategic and interregional partnerships have been an important mechanism for the European Union's relationship with emerging countries, but for European interregional relations as well. With Latin America, the European Union has already established bilateral strategic partnerships with Brazil and Mexico, and interregional partnerships with the Community of Latin American and Caribbean States and Central America countries and special countries of the region. The aim of this panel is to discuss the role of the partnerships mechanism in Euro-Latin American relations.
