Introduction | Metaphors in political discourse

Aristotle (Poetics, 22)

« It is a great thing, indeed, to make a proper use of these poetical forms, as also of [5] compounds and strange words. But the greatest thing by far is to be a master of metaphor. It is the one thing that cannot be learnt from others; and it is also a sign of genius, since a good metaphor implies an intuitive perception of the similarity in dissimilars. »

Metaphors in political discourse

Charteris-Black (2011: 28)

« In political contexts metaphor can be, and often is, used for ideological purposes because it activates unconscious emotional associations and thereby contributes to myth creation: politicians use metaphors to tell the right story»

(...)

« Rhetorically, metaphors contribute to mental representations of political issues, making alternative ways of understanding these issues more difficult and in so doing 'occupy' the mind »

21

Metaphors in political discourse

- Important role of metaphors in structuring our perception and understanding of abstract political concept and relations (Lakoff 2002, De Landstheer 2009, Koller 2009, L'Hôte 2011, L'Hôte & Lemmens 2009, Musolff 2004, Semino 2008)
- Political systems, federalism, democracy, nation, nationalism... (Musolff 2020, Perrez & Reuchamps, 2014, 2015, Putz 2019, Šarić & Milan Stanojević 2019)

“it is often claimed that the use of metaphor is particularly necessary in politics, since politics is an abstract and complex domain of experience, and metaphors can provide ways of simplifying complexities and making abstractions accessible” (Semino 2008: 90)

22

Metaphors in political discourse

- Metaphors have the potential to frame the debate
 - “[...] select[ing] some aspects of a perceived reality and mak[ing] it more salient in a communicating text, in such a way as to promote a particular problem definition, causal interpretation, moral evaluation, and/or treatment recommendation for the described item” (Entman, 1993: 52)
 - Political metaphors “serve primarily as a means to change meanings, and hence, to change social and political attitudes” (Musolff, 2016: 136).
 - Charteris-Black (2004: 23): “if metaphor can influence the way we perceive a certain social reality, then it is a potent and potentially powerful weapon”.

ABSTRACT. Critical discourse analysis (CDA) studies have examined the construction, reproduction, and mental appropriation of 'top-down' discourses of dominance but have paid little attention to 'bottom-up' analyses of semi-formal texts such as Letters to the Editor (LEs) in small-town newspapers. We investigate here the discourse of LEs written by candidates for political office: their

Metaphors in political discourse > avenues

This question is allied to the question of what constitutes politics. If 'politics' is confined to institutional politics – parliamentary debates, party conference speeches, and the like, and generally more overtly linked to ideology, then the objects of study for political discourse analysis can be easily circumscribed. But everyday conflicts – say between men and women, workers and managers, policemen and black youths, even schoolchildren and teachers – are some- times by some people characterized as 'political'. However, it is probably useful to maintain a distinction between institutional politics and everyday politics. It is true that the borderline may be fuzzy, and that many other relationships between individuals and groups may not be regarded as politics at all by many people.

 - To what extent does metaphor use evolve over time?
 - Is there variation among the political actors producing these metaphors?
 - To what extent does metaphor use vary according to the specific political context in which they are produced (state's reforms, elections,...)?
 - To what extent is the distinction between deliberate and non-deliberate metaphors relevant for political discourse analysis? (Cultural variation?)

Case study 2 – Television debates

- TV debates | RTBF – Mise au Point (VRT - De Zevende Dag)
 - Weekly political programs broadcasted by the public TV channels
 - Sample selection: Only television debates that specifically deal with the development and evolution of Belgian federalism
 - 80 debates in total (RTBF: 80 | VRT: 47) > 15 hours (RTBF: 9 | VRT: 6)
 - Period: from 1967 until 2016 (mainly 1980 to 2016)
 - RTBF-corpus: 906.237 words
- Political actors
 - Belgian politicians from both communities (MPs, Ministers and officials from political parties)
 - Journalists
 - Members of the civil society (Professors, artists,...)
- Audience
 - Primary audience: other political actors during the debates
 - Secondary audience: citizens
- Oral (but retranscribed) and formal form of political discourse

BELGIAN FEDERALISM IS A LOVE RELATIONSHIP/FAMILY

Non-deliberate

FR. Que deviendrons Bruxelles et la Wallonie en cas de divorce belge (Journaliste, RTBF, 13/12/2006)

EN. What will Brussels and Wallonia become in case of a Belgian divorce? (Journalist, RTBF, 13/12/2006)

Deliberate

FR. Si on a dans sa propre sa famille, si on a deux enfants et que les deux enfants ont une autre maladie, on ne donne pas le même médicament. Ça c'est la plus importante question. (Geert Lambert, Spirit, 13/12/2006)

EN. If you have in your own family, if you have two children and the two children have a different disease, you don't give the same medicine. That's the most important question. (Geert Lambert, Spirit, 13/12/2006)

BELGIAN FEDERALISM IS A DISEASE

Non-deliberate

FR. FR. Mais pour l'instant, on a un peu l'impression d'être dans une situation de coma, de blocage, je le vois au parlement fédéral. (Zoé Genot, Ecolo, 20/02/05)

EN But for the time being, we have the impression of being in a situation of coma, of deadlock, I can see that at the federal government (Zoé Genot, Ecolo, 20/02/05)

Deliberate

FR. A1 : Abrégeons les souffrances ?
 PHG : Alors. Il y a deux pratiques : il y a la pratique flamande qui consiste à euthanasier la Belgique et il y a la pratique francophone qui consiste à pratiquer contre toutes évidences un acharnement thérapeutique.
 (Paul-Henri Gendebien, RWF, 12/09/2014)

EN. A1: Should we put an end to Belgium's sufferings?
 PHG: So, there are two practices: the Flemish one consisting in practising euthanasia on Belgium and the francophone one obviously consisting in practising a heroic treatment.

BELGIAN FEDERALISM IS A LOVE RELATIONSHIP/FAMILY

FR. Je voudrais poser une question à monsieur Voorhamme. Vous dites et vous venez de dire et vous pensez la même chose tous les trois je crois "les francophones ont peur". C'est ce que vous dites, c'est l'analyse que vous avez, c'est un refus par la peur. Alors est-ce qu'il est anormal d'avoir peur quand dans un couple un des deux sent qu'il va se faire larguer par l'autre? Est-ce que c'est, ou alors la question que je vous pose c'est, est-ce que vous tenez encore au couple ou bien est-ce que vous estimez effectivement que les visions sont tellement différentes qu'il faut dépasser ce stade-là?(Journaliste, RTBF, 14/03/1999)

EN. I'd like to ask a question to mr Voorhamme. You claim and the three of you just said the same thing, I think « the francophones are afraid ». It's what you're claiming. It's your analysis, a refusal out of fear. So, is it unusual to be afraid when in a couple one of the two (partners) is feeling s/he will get dumped by the other? So the question I'm asking is: do you still care about the couple or do you think the visions are so different that we should go beyond that?
(Journalist, RTBF, 14/03/1999)

Case study 3 – Parliamentary debates

P. Heyvaert (2020) – PhD Dissertation > A Linguistic and Critical Analysis of Deliberate Metaphors in Belgian Parliamentary Debates

- Parliamentary discourse

- Belgian governmental policy statements (Prime Minister's policy statement + politicians' responses)
- Bilingual corpus French - Dutch
- Peer-to-peer political discourse
- Diachronic: ten year time span (2006 – 2016)
- large data (approx. 1 million words)

Case study 3 – Parliamentary debates

P. Heyvaert (2020) – PhD Dissertation > A Linguistic and Critical Analysis of Deliberate Metaphors in Belgian Parliamentary Debates

- Research objectives

- Identify the linguistic features that are identified as characteristics of deliberate metaphor use
- Analyze the variation in deliberate metaphor use
 - Political affiliation, gender
 - Diachronic evolution
- Pinpoint the pragmatic/communicative functions of deliberate metaphors?

Conclusions

101

Interdisciplinarity

- Relevance for linguists
 - Going beyond the « simple » observation of metaphors in political discourse
 - Variation
 - Questioning aspects of metaphor study that were taken for granted
- Relevance for political scientists
 - Looking at the surface form of words (>< content, ideas)
 - Role of metaphors in structuring our understanding of political concepts

102

Metaphors in political discourse

- Interest to look at variation in political metaphor use
 - Different types of political corpora
 - Citizen discourse
 - TV debates
 - Parliamentary debates
 - Evolution through time
 - Different types of actors
 - Political affiliation
 - Opposition vs. coalition
 - Gender
