PRACTICAL AND POLITICAL ISSUES

- Considering childcare and its organization with the child as the main character in all institutions (early childhood care, nursery school, extracurricular care) by involving families.
- Facilitating inter-institutional transitions.
- Fostering attention to daily micro-transitions.
- Recognising the educational value of any micro-situation with its relational dimension (going beyond the logic of "doing").
- Making Educare a shared concept that has a strong meaning for everybody.
- Reorganising the workforce and its role distribution.
- Rethinking professionalisation and the training opportunities.

- FOOD FOR THOUGHT
- Making the organization of transitions an institutional and governance priority.
  - Paying attention to the familiarization process.
  - Continuing the reflective processes of observation, documentation, and analysis of Educare.
  - Providing time for reflective analysis in teams and between teams, with psycho-pedagogical supervision.
  - Creating communities of practice.
  - Promoting the understanding and transmission of Educare.
  - Implementing Educare in initial and continuing training aimed at professionals from different fields (intersectoral) in support and coaching.
  - Continuing professional tourism approaches (Brougère, 2021) within and outside borders.
  - Sharing knowledge and experiences.
