

Table of Contents

Acknowledgements	1
Introduction	7
American Sublimes: The Natural and the Technological	9
Anthropocene Sublimes: The Ecological, the Environmental, and the Speculative	14
The Contemporary U.S. Ecobiographical Memoir in the Anthropocene	21
A Rhetorical-Econarratological and Materialist Inquiry: Narrative Features, Senses, and Affects ..	31
Overview of the Chapters	36
Part I: Post-Natural and Post-Technological Sublimes	40
Chapter 1: Climbing to the Haptic Sublime	41
Introduction: From Mountain View to Mountain Terrain	41
Mapping the Origins and Limits of the Mountain Sublime	41
Toward the Haptic Sublime: Aesthetic and Affective Engagement in Mountaineering.....	44
Narrativizing the Contemporary Mountain Sublime: Trauma and Relationality	48
“A State of Grace”: Deceiving Hubris and the Relational Self in Jon Krakauer’s Mountaineering Memoirs	52
“The World Was Made Real”: Intimacy and Relational Awareness in Into the Wild (1996)	52
“Embrace the Misery”: Trauma and Self-Questioning in Into Thin Air (1997) and Classic Krakauer (2019)	59
“To Honor, to Grieve, to Grow”: Shared Trauma and the Social Self in Silvia Vasquez-Lavado’s In the Shadow of the Mountain: A Memoir of Courage (2022)	65
Between “Monster” and “Mother”: Compassion, Transcendence, and Ridum	67
From “Fueled by Grief” to “Flooded with Grace”: Temporality and the Sublimation of Trauma	73
Conclusion: Working with the Haptic Sublime?	79
Chapter 2: Hunting for the Animal Sublime	84
Introduction: Tracking Animals in Experiences and Theories of the Sublime	84
From Traditional Theories of the Sublime to Animal Agency and Hunting	86
Sublime Bison, Deer, and the Rooseveltian American Hunter	89
“An Act of Love”: Taking Lives, Keeping Still Lives, and Recuperating the American Self in Steven Rinella’s Memoirs.....	95
“A Handy Mirror”: Awe, Guilt, and the Myth of the National Self in American Buffalo: In Search of a Lost Icon (2008)	96
“Something that Resembled Religion”: Salvaging Hunting and the Male Predator’s Self in Meat Eater: Adventures from the Life of an American Hunter (2012)	109
No Abstraction, No Forgiveness: Human-Nonhuman Relationality in Mary Zeiss Stange’s and Gerald Vizenor’s Memoiristic Hunting Narratives	114
“Blood-Knowledge”: Reciprocity and the Female Predator’s Self in Mary Z. Stange’s Woman the Hunter (1997)	114
“He Wanted to Live”: De-Aestheticizing Recreational Hunting for the Animal Self in Gerald Vizenor’s “October 1957: Death Song to a Red Rodent” (1990).....	121
Conclusion: Challenging Affective Logics in Human-Nonhuman Work	128
Chapter 3: Farming the Post-Agricultural Sublime	133
Introduction: Reworking the Agricultural Sublime in the Anthropocene	133
‘Get Big or Get Out!’: From the Jeffersonian Yeoman to the Factory Farm and the Agricultural(ist) Sublime	135
Representing Agriculture in the Contemporary American Farm Memoir	145

Going ‘Back to the Farm’ and Thinking Small: Kristin Kimball’s The Dirty Life (2010) and Good Husbandry (2019).....	149
“Dirt Plus Water Plus Sun Plus Sweat Equaled Food”: Labor and Disgust on the Essex Farm.....	149
“Something Stronger and More Intimate”: Smallness and Human-Animal Work in Good Husbandry	156
“Like a Blunting of the Real”: “Machine Work” and Animal Death in Ellyn Gaydos’ Pig Years (2022).....	162
Conclusion: Post-Agricultural ‘Female’ Sublimes	170
Part II: Post-Energy Sublimes	175
Chapter 4: Risking the Nuclear Sublime	176
Introduction: The Poetics of Nuclear Risk in the Atomic Age.....	176
“We Must Somehow Articulate or Image-Forth this End-Game Genre”: The Nuclear/Atomic Sublime and its Invisibilities.....	180
Addressing the Absences: The Rhetorics of Affective Knowledge and Hauntology	187
“An Explosion but also a Pause”: Spectral Rhetoric and the Nuclear Sensorium in Lindsey A. Freeman’s This Atom Bomb in Me (2019).....	192
“Bombed Without a Bang”: Notional Ekphrasis and Phantoms in Emily Strasser’s Half-Life of a Secret: Reckoning with a Hidden History (2023).....	204
Conclusion: A Matrix of Counternarratives to the Nuclear Sublime	218
Chapter 5: Partnering with the Petroleum Sublime	222
Introduction: The Spilled Rhetoric of the Toxic-Petroleum Sublime.....	222
From the Petroleum to the Toxic Sublime, or from Complicit to Critical Engagement with Oil.....	222
“Partnering with Oil”: North Dakota and the Art of Spilled Rhetoric	231
“The Grease May Turn the World, but the Wound Rules the Men Who Do the Work”: Retrosexuality and the Toxic-Haptic Sublime in Michael Patrick F. Smith’s The Good Hand (2021)	236
A “Silence Between Acceptance and Exile”: Queer Identity and Corporeal Resistance in Taylor Brorby’s Boys and Oil (2022).....	251
Conclusion: Petro-Masculinity, the Oil Memoir, and the Politicization of the Toxic Sublime	261
Coda: From the Titanic to the Pluralized Sublime, or Navigating “Heart Work” in the Anthropocene.....	265
Reference List	273