

Towards better SK tools: improving the SK pharmacophore model

Vitello Romain

Liège, academic year 2024 - 2025

PhD thesis submitted to the University of Liège,
Faculty of Medicine

In fulfilment of the requirements for the degree of Doctorate in Biomedical and Pharmaceutical Sciences

Under the promotion and supervision of : Liégeois Jean-François

Disclaimer

At the time of publication, part of this manuscript is undergoing a valorisation process and, therefore, remains unpublished. This specific section will be designated as confidential with the appropriate label. The reader is trusted not to disclose, publish, or utilise any information contained in the confidential section of this work until it has been officially published.